Is Bringing Your Land Patent Rights Forward Right for You?

Expectation Summary

Bringing your Land Patent rights forward is about choosing a different kind of responsibility. It is not about avoiding responsibility.

You will be responsible for understanding the jurisprudence of the land patent and its origin. Exclusive Equity for America and uncorrupted sacred scripture are not a jurisdiction but instead a jurisprudence; therefore requiring the development of and discipline for the “eyes of equity” and “spiritual discernment.”

You will be trading convenience from your participation with public administration of real estate for the inconvenience of self-governance and lawful defense of your superior title, and the special equitable rights that many have not had the chance to understand and comprehend..

If you want simplicity, liquidity, and ease, this is probably not a path for you.

If you want long-term certainty, legacy, and are willing to stand on principle and well-established land law, this path might be for you.

This Path Might Be Right for You If...

- You are philosophically aligned with: private land rights; exclusive equity for America, operating in peace, sacred honor and trust; honor-based notice and presentment; diplomatic engagement; and accepting responsibility and accountability for the combination of public and/or private titles you rely upon for your lifestyle.
- You are aligned with exclusive eternal covenantal equitable principles over administrative familiarity and convenience, and are inspired by this learning opportunity to pursue mastery over obscured historical and lawful information.
- You value clear, reliable, and absolute title granted by the Creator and expressed by Land Patent from the foundation of beginning and by “The United States of America”.
- Your ideal outcome is to choose to act with self-determination and responsibility.
- You intend to live on and/or steward your land privately (family homestead, inheritable estate, farm, ranch, retreat land, etc.).
- You are prepared to learn about holding land outside the public property / real-estate administration system and challenges.
- You are open to inconvenient private responsibility over relying on public administrative convenience.

- You are willing to learn, understand, know, and defend your rights, interests, and title honorably and in peace if/when challenged.
- You understand this is not convenient, a shortcut, loophole, or hack, but a lawful and disciplined lifestyle choice that we should have been raised into. So be patient with your learning experience.
- You are financially and emotionally stable, and have the time for: research and document creation (including any related costs); engaging with possible legal resistance; and enduring ministerial and/or administrative time delays.
- You are okay with being unique, different, and criticized for not being mainstream.
- You accept that American Meeting Group and/or its Trustees cannot guarantee any outcome due to geo-political dominance, and the equitable doctrine of laches.
- You understand that land under a Land Patent is conveyed, not bought or sold, and you are not relying on the Multiple Listing Service (MLS) for resale or the many aspects of the public administrative and commercial real estate system. Essentially, if you choose to convey the land, do so privately, similar to "For Sale By Owner, if you require a consideration in order to grant and convey or dispose of your land rights do so through a private arrangement, and not a land sale for cash.
- You want to pursue freeing the land from compelled property tax AND are willing to accept the potential loss of bundled county services listed on your property tax bill.
- You are open to considering private arrangement alternatives instead of prearranged public services (i.e. fire & police protection, road services & maintenance, utilities, etc.), or considering paying property tax and adding the following memo to your payment:

"Granted as gift, not under contract: securing the peace, all rights preserved."

This Process May NOT Be Right for You If...

This list is just as important, and often more so.

- You are unable or unwilling to put the land in your name — not in the name of a Trust, LLC, or other legal fiction.
- You are a real estate developer, flipper, or investor relying on the Multiple Listing Service (MLS), title insurance, or conventional buyers and/or lenders.
- You plan to sell the property on the open real-estate market in the future.
- You need your land to remain highly liquid, easily financeable, or conventionally insurable.
- You are looking for a way to avoid paying a mortgage, force a lender or lien to "go away," or escape contractual obligations.
- You believe Land Patents are a magic shield that automatically removes property taxes, automatically stops foreclosure, automatically removes mortgages and liens, or automatically prevents administrative enforcement actions.
- You are not willing to learn and defend your rights if challenged by a county, agency, or court.
- You rely heavily on being provided county fire protection, police response, road maintenance, public utilities, or anything tied to your property tax bill, AND you are unwilling to create private arrangements for these.

- You are not willing to put in the time to acquire foundational organic law education, learn and understand the equitable notice process, or take responsibility for your land stewarding choices.
- You want zero friction with government systems.
- You expect instant or guaranteed results.
- You are uncomfortable with administrative resistance, procedural delays, or being misunderstood.
- You are pursuing this primarily out of fear, anger, or rebellion, rather than clarity and a sense of duty to honor.

■ AMG Guidance: This Notice & Disclaimer is provided as a contemplative self-determining aid. It is not an exhaustive list but rather a general overview for consideration. Bringing your Land Patent rights forward is a disciplined, honor-based process, not a guaranteed outcome due to the equitable doctrine of laches. Members are encouraged to move at their own pace, ask questions, and proceed only when fully aligned with the responsibilities described above.
